North Dundas passes 2020 budget, roads are a priority

Joseph Morin

WINCHESTER - Over the past few months the North Dundas council has worked to finalize its 2020 budget.

On Wed., Feb. 19 they took a final look at their wish list, compared that to the money they had to work with, declared what their priorities should be, and passed the 2020 budget.

Mayor Tony Fraser described this year's budget as, "a reality based budget."

Taxes will increase slightly, by 2.52 per cent compared with last year. That means a North Dundas home worth $232,742 will pay $4.79 a month more on their taxes for a yearly total of $57.48. The commercial tax rate increased by the same amount.

Budget meetings began in December; at that meeting the total amount of money needed to operate the municipality for the next year was pegged at $7,207,059. That was the amount needed to satisfy all of the items on the council's wish list.

Subsequent meetings in January and February saw the total revenues target reduced to $6,787,857; to be added to the municipal amount are the taxes due to the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry and the Upper Canada District School Board.

North Dundas budget

The 2020 SD&G budget, passed on Feb. 18, featured an increase in collected tax revenue to $50,675,845. They are asking taxpayers to come up with an extra $2,734,137. The increase represents a 5.71 per cent increase in taxes for county residents. An average home in SD&G will have a yearly increase of $34.35, a 2.75 per cent increase.

One reason for a portion of the increase is the required funding for the Maxville Manor and Dundas Manor. Those two projects represent a cost of $6.5 million.

The municipality collects all of the taxes for all three tiers of government and passes the individual amounts onto the appropriate level.

The North Dundas staff presented their council with its first look at the 2020 budget on Dec. 10.

Councillors debated, discussed and researched budget items in an effort to keep tax increases to a minimum but at the same time address their priorities, one of which is roads.

Fraser explained, "We recognized on our road tour for example, how many dollars needed to be spent on roads; in the past, we did the road tour in the spring which was too late, so we did it in the fall."

The mayor said the information from the road trip was not all good.

"Our roads were in such poor shape," he said. "So with staff's help and our time on the road, we committed to the idea that these roads are priorities. It was quite an exhaustive list of roads."

The total cost to look after the list of roads was about $2.4 million and would be spread out over two years.

There are more than 770 roads that crisscross North Dundas.

"The council identifies 14 roads that need attention," said Fraser. "We will spend $1.7 million in 2020 and $761,000 in 2021; the council is committed."

The mayor stressed that the council wanted to do more with roads but were concerned that doing so, would leave them no financial wiggle room for projects and needs from other departments.

"We identified some smaller roads that could wait until 2024," he said.

The mayor said the number one complaint from taxpayers is about roads.

The budget process involved compromise and some hard decisions.

"We went through a lot of discussions in the last few meetings. After the first draft was presented and we saw the numbers, we looked for a way to soften the budgetary blow and spread it over two years," he said.

The mayor explained that the problem with roads – in contrast to other municipal assets – is that a road's condition is based on facts and science as opposed to opinion.

In other matters, the council was able to cut some projected spending or at least defer it, as the projects involved could wait a bit.

"It becomes an issue about how much leeway we have with public purse," said Fraser.

North Dundas treasurer John Gareau, the township's director of finance, commented that the budget process was relatively straightforward because of the commitment and input of staff.

He said, "We try to get the budget down to something reasonable, between a wish list and what can actually get done."

"We have to live within the budget constraints," he said. "All of the money comes from the taxpayer eventually in one form or another."

The final budget was passed on Feb. 19 after councillors shaved an additional $33,698 from it.

Ontario Heritage Award

education. Harper is currently a third-year history student at Carleton University.

Harper explained that she received the award from the current Ontario Lieutenant Governor, the Honourable Elizabeth Dowdeswell and felt "overwhelmed and really grateful for receiving such an honour."

The St. Lawrence Branch of the United Empire Loyalists nominated Harper for the award. Stephen McDonald, interim vice-president of the branch, told The Chesterville Record Harper "has continually demonstrated a keen interest in the history of Eastern Ontario, and in particular that of Chesterville and area, as well as the history of the United Empire Loyalists."

He said she has "shown leadership in organizing events, giving speeches and administering online social media accounts for various historical groups."

"This is a very well-deserved recognition of her work and accomplishments. In our view, Ashley is becoming a future leader in the field of Canadian historical studies," he concluded.

Harper is currently serving as past-president of the CDHS, director of the St. Lawrence Branch of the UELAC and webmaster for the Friends of the Crysler Battlefield. She has worked as an interpreter at the Carmen House in South Dundas and the Sir John Johnson Manor House in Williamstown.

After completing her degree in history, she would like to work with historical records and documents.

Queen's Park update, Feb. 21

With Family Day being celebrated on Feb. 17, I hope everyone was able to spend quality family time together and to attend one of the many events that were put on by our dedicated volunteers.

Members of the provincial Parliament returned this past week to Queen's Park to start our legislative spring session, and I look forward to representing your needs in the government.

Leading up to the new session, I was able to meet with many local residents of Stormont-Dundas-South Glengarry to gather feedback on issues that impact municipalities, businesses, and families. We were able to package these concerns and include them in our submission to the 2020 Ontario budget.

The topic of mental health and addiction services was among the most pressing issues I heard during these discussions. Every year, more than one million Ontarians experience a mental health or addiction challenge. So it is welcome news that the Minister of Health, Christine Elliott, announced the Mental Health and Addictions Centre of Excellence Act. This allows the province to take a huge step towards helping the growing number of patients get the care they need from caregivers and health professionals. This new centre will become the hub for building a comprehensive and interconnected mental health and addictions system. It will be the foundation for a wide-ranging plan that will invest $3.8-billion over the next 10 years and will create new services and expand existing programs.

Discussions also identified that the cost and delivery of automobile insurance is making life unaffordable for residents and businesses alike. Rates have been rising for many years and Ontario drivers are paying some of the highest premiums in the country. The government has been reviewing the file and is implementing a new blueprint that will fix the province's broken auto insurance system. The Putting Drivers First plan will lower costs, improve consumer choice and increase industry competition for the benefit of drivers.

I also had the opportunity to debate Bill 156, Security From Trespass and Protecting Food Safety Act, this past week. If passed, farmers, their animals, livestock transporters, and the province's food supply will be better protected by requiring explicit prior consent to access an animal protection zone on a farm, a vehicle transporting livestock, or a food processing facility. The proposed legislation will address the risks and challenges trespassers pose, such as exposing farm animals to stress and disease and introducing contaminants into our food supply. The health and safety of farmers, farm animals, and our food supply are at the heart of this legislation.

On Feb. 24, I will be attending the Ontario Good Roads Convention in Toronto and look forward to receiving delegations for our region and throughout the province. The conference provides a great opportunity for our local politicians and stakeholders to share ideas and meet with government officials.

Food for thought

Boy oh boy! That was an eye-opener! I'm talking about a recent visit to the Ottawa Food Bank warehouse and offices at St. Laurent Blvd. and the Queensway. I had a vague understanding that the operation existed there but the magnitude...like I said, my eyes were opened!

Usually when we think food bank, we think of a smallish, perhaps a tad grubby, set-up of shelves spilling over with cans and boxes of prepared food. Volunteers collect the food, sort it, stack it, and hand it out to clients which we, the donors, hope are carefully screened on the basis of three to five days' worth of emergency supplies per month.

That description might apply to your satellite country food banks, maybe even to some in the city;

however, it comes nowhere near describing food bank central, the mothership, the big city location where 5.5 million pounds of provisions a year are gathered for general distribution to partner outlets.

This is big business, my friends, with more than 30 workers handling $16.8 million of investment in food and funds last fiscal year. After 35 years, the food bank system here and across the land is entrenched in our culture; it wouldn't matter if all those identifiably hungry persons suddenly became overfed... there's too much riding on food bank infrastructure, staffing, and supporters for it to ever fold up.

Our tour of the premises was led by the highly informative Tricia Johnson, a major gifts officer with the food bank. As I learned during the visit organized by the very active regional chapter of the Ontario Institute of Agrologists, the food bank contribution goes way beyond feeding some of the needier members of society. It serves as a repository for tons of good food which would otherwise be consigned to the scrap pile.

Consider this stat offered by two representatives of Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada who addressed the OIA gathering: 31 per cent of food produced in Canada, worth about $49.5 billion, is wasted. Instead of being consumed, this food is landfilled, incinerated or treated as organic material.

If you were to guess, what would you come up with as the ratio of processed to fresh food handled by the food bank? I might have guessed 20 per cent fresh but the actual number is 49 per cent, Johnson told our little group as we circulated among among flats and shelves of cans, dairy products and flash frozen meats. A new super-sized freezer installed with $150,000 in funds from the Ontario Trillium Foundation will allow serious expansion of frozen capacity.

Yes, there are beat up bags of donations in part of the warehouse which will be sorted by volunteers; but the warehouse is mainly stocked with donated and purchased, well organized, colour-coded stacks of food handed to 39,000 people a month (in the 2018-19 fiscal year).

The objective, says CEO Michael Maidment, is not just to provide food but to provide nutritious food. "We understand that the health of people living in poverty is worse than the rest of the population, therefore nutritious food is even more important."

The central food bank is innovative; it's into farming, harvesting 114,000 pounds of fruit and vegetables last year off donated land. With the help of a partner, squash was converted into 350 packets of frozen soup for distribution to clients. The food bank is investing in community kitchen programs, has purchased refrigerators for partner agencies so they can handle more fresh food, and is recovering more products from grocery partners.

But in terms of mitigating waste, the Ottawa Food Bank and others are just scratching the surface. As Agriculture and Agri-Food's Lynne Guerrette outlined, Canada has fallen behind other countries in introducing food waste initiatives such as awareness campaigns, tax incentives, national strategies, and reformed expiry and best-before dates which are responsible for a tremendous amount of premature dumping.

That's why the ministry is launching the Food Waste Reduction Challenge, an effort complete with prizes to engage the Canadian public and business sector in coming up with actions and solutions to reduce waste at every step in the farm-to-plate chain.

For example, is there merit in creating new markets in repurposing waste, in extending shelf-life, in creating new tools to test for food safety and edibility, in improving inventory management, and in raising consumer awareness?

There's obviously lots of room to move in reducing waste. Rerouting excess production to food banks simply isn't cutting it.

NDDHS Report

By Carley Milne-Servage
Student Council Communications

ND wears pink to stand up to bullying

Today, Wed., Feb. 26, is a day to wear pink to raise awareness of bullying. Why do we wear pink? In Nova Scotia, in 2007, a Grade 9 student was being bullied for wearing a pink shirt on the first day of school. Three Grade 12 students saw this happening and decided that something had to be done, so they went out and bought pink shirts to give to other students to wear. By the end of the week, most of the students in the school were wearing pink shirts to show their support for the Grade 9 student. This is a great demonstration of school solidarity. Let's make our school a bully-free place North Dundas! Make sure to tell an adult if you witness someone being bullied.

Attention all Grade 12 students who are planning on graduating in June. Grad gowns need to be ordered at the beginning of March, so we need you to let us know your size. Please visit room 106 during the next week to try on a sample gown and record your size on the list posted. The gowns cost $25 and you may keep them. Money can be given to Mrs. Hall, Ms. McDonell, or Mrs. Byrd.

Prom season is approaching, and our North Dundas seniors are preparing to sell prom tickets but first they have to lower the price. On March 6, from 4:30 to 7:00 p.m., they will be holding a spaghetti dinner, cake auction, and silent auction, and all of the proceeds will go toward lowering the ticket prices so that everyone has an opportunity to go to prom. Tickets are $10 for those over 10 years old, and $5 for those 10 years and under. Tickets are being sold at school during lunch, as well as at Winchester Foodland on Sat., Feb. 29, and Sun., March 1, from 11 a.m to 3 p.m. Come out for a great meal and support our senior students!

Finally, congratulations to our junior and senior girls' volleyball teams for their great matches last Thurs., Feb. 20. The senior girls faced a strong Char-Lan team in quarter finals, but unfortunately lost two close matches. The junior girls faced Glengarry in the finals and won their two sets, becoming SD&G champs! Great season girls!

Local health services get boost

Joseph Morin
Record Staff

WINCHESTER – Winchester and area residents can expect more health care services with the introduction of the Rideau St. Lawrence Family Health Team to the community.

Members of the health team received permission from the North Dundas council at the Feb. 1 council meeting to move in with the Seaway Valley Community Health Centre at 547 St. Lawrence St. in Winchester; this is the same building that is home to the library and the OPP.

The addition of the family health team to the North Dundas community is designed to complement existing health services such as the Winchester District Memorial Hospital.

On hearing the request, Mayor Tony Fraser said, "This is an opportunity for a partnership."

Donna Derouchie, the executive director of the health team, made the group's presentation to council.

She stressed that this was just the first step in establishing the family health team in the area.

Moving into the space will not require significant physical changes to the building.

"We are not asking for any money," said Derouchie.

"We should be able to make some changes to make the space more hospitable for our patients," she said.

There will only be two people working from the office space, and there will be room for patients to visit and meet with health care professionals.

Derouchie explained some of the history of the health team and how it would function alongside existing health services in the community. "Our goal is to complement existing services, not duplicate them. Family health teams were created to expand access to comprehensive family health care services across Ontario," she said.

There are currently three million Ontarians enrolled with family health teams in more than 200 communities in the province.

Derouchie said, "Family health teams are primary health care organizations that include a team of family physicians, nurse practitioners, registered nurses, social workers, pharmacists and other professionals who work together to provide primary health care for their community. They ensure that people receive the care they need in their communities, as each team is set-up based on local health and community needs."

Members of the team will work with other members of medical clinics in the area such as the North Dundas Medical Clinic.

"Our patients will come from all of the area clinics," said Derouchie.

The health team is a relatively new concept for the area but it does exist in other parts of Ontario.

"We are bringing the family health team to the betterment of patients in North Dundas, South Dundas and South Stormont areas."

Family health teams are funded by the Ministry of Health and Long-Term Care. The Rideau St. Lawrence team received approval to hire staff in 2019.

A partnership between the health team and the Seaway Valley Community Health Care Centre has already been created.

"Patients from a group of medical clinics and physician offices within this catchment area will have access to these allied health professionals.

Programs include chronic disease care, and the prescription and description of management, mental health, acute episodic opioids and narcotics," said Derouchie.

The Rideau St. Lawrence Family Health Team attended the Feb. 11 North Dundas council meeting to ask for approval to move in with the Seaway Valley Community Health Centre in Winchester. The council agreed to the request. Pictured here are Donna Derouchie of the Rideau St. Lawrence Family Health Team (left), Leanne Clouthier of the community health centre and Cathy Pearson of the Rideau St. Lawrence Family Health Team. MORRISBURG – The Morrisburg Legion Branch 48 has been home to the St. Mary's St. Cecilia Catholic School Pancake Breakfast Fundraiser for the past 19 years. This year the breakfast took place on Sun., Feb. 23.

Organizers say the event is the biggest of its kind in the area. The volunteers at the Sunday event routinely serve up close to 900 pancakes and at least 400 sausages plus gallons of coffee, tea and beverages like orange juice. It's a true family event.

People come to the breakfast from as far away as Iroquois and Brinston, Chesterville and Winchester.

Along with food there was a silent auction and a raffle.

The breakfast was hosted by the school's parent council and all of the funds generated go directly back to the council to be used for year-end field trips and special school activities.

Simplify TAX SEASON Hire a pro!

How hiring a tax professional saves you money

Every April, taxpayers rush to get their taxes in before the deadline. While it's possible to save money by doing your taxes yourself, here are two important reasons why you shouldn't.

You'll avoid mistakes and omissions

When people file their own taxes, even with the help of software, they often make mistakes. These errors typically involve failing to claim certain types of tax credits or claiming credits that don't apply to the person filing.

The first kind of mistake will cost you money, but the second may be considered a form of tax evasion. While a mistake doesn't mean you'll be convicted of tax fraud, you could be audited, which is a lengthy and inconvenient process. You may also have to pay a fine.

Furthermore, people who are self-employed, especially when working at a home-based business, often aren't aware of the complicated rules governing their tax situation. Merely being in business for yourself is oftentimes enough to flag the interest of the Canada Revenue Agency.

You'll get all the credits you're owed

There's a staggering number of tax credits and finding out which ones you're eligible for can be a herculean task. Keeping up to date with those credits every year is simply not possible for most people.

A good tax accountant will be aware of all the credits you're entitled to, ensuring that you don't pay a cent more than you absolutely have to. This is especially important if your financial situation is complicated or you're self-employed.

The bottom line is that filing your taxes with the help of a professional means you'll benefit from every credit you're entitled to while avoiding costly mistakes. This year, be sure to hire an expert.

South Dundas receives grant to complete waterfront path

SOUTH DUNDAS – Thanks to a grant from the Ontario Trillium Foundation (OTF), South Dundas will complete the rehabilitation of the Iroquois Waterfront Pathway.

The foundation has provided a $150,000 capital grant to complete the project in 2020.

"I am pleased to see the Ontario Trillium Foundation is able to support South Dundas in this worthwhile project in the community," said Jim McDonell, MPP for Stormont-Dundas-South Glengarry. "Providing local residents with the opportunity to stay active is an important component of ensuring we stay involved, connected and healthy. I look forward to more local residents accessing an upgraded pathway in Iroquois this year and encourage visitors to make a point of enjoying it as well."

The Iroquois Waterfront Path rehabilitation project will repair more than 2 km of pathway and widen the path to two metres for better accessibility.

"This grant has a significant impact on our residents and the visitors who come to South Dundas," said Mayor Steven Byvelds. "Having the proper infrastructure to allow our residents to participate in an active lifestyle helps make South Dundas a better place. This grant will contribute to the revitalization of the waterfront and provide an accessible place for everyone to enjoy."

Russell curling star goes to the Brier...for PEI

Tom Van Dusen
Villager Staff

RUSSELL – That Bryan Cochrane: He'll always find a way to curl at the top of the scale even if it means doing it for...Prince Edward Island?

How can a Russell lad, born and raised here, president of the Russell Curling Club, be representing PEI in the Tim Hortons Brier, the most well-known men's curling event in Canada?

It's all about a free agent rule implemented by Curling Canada permitting the use by a province of an import ringer. This certainly defines Cochrane, who's been curling at a peak level for as long as anyone can remember, including at the 2003 Brier where he did well while not making the playoffs.

After racking up several big wins last year, Cochrane's team won the World Senior Curling Championship in Norway with an undefeated nine games. On that team were fellow Russell Club members Morgan Currie, a native of Summerside, PEI, and Ian MacAulay of Souris, PEI. Under a new Curling Canada birthright status eligibility rule, competitors can play for the province in which they were born.

Rounding out the PEI Brier foursome is a champion who originates from and resides on PEI, Mark O'Rourke, a provincial Curling Hall of Fame inductee who has played in 10 Briers and other national competitions. The new addition has meshed well with the three Russell members who know each other's every move.

And overseeing the PEI entry in the 2020 Brier will be none other than Russell's Ken Sullivan, the fourth member of Team Cochrane that won in Norway, who has been certified as a coach.

Cochrane's team won three qualifying competitions to claim the PEI curling title undefeated. While it's not the norm to have three non-residents claim the title, Currie said the island organization was supportive and always refers to himself and MacAulay as island natives. Some resident curlers, he said, were instrumental in him learning the sport as a youngster.

Cochrane observed that a few PEI players were less than excited that an outsider would be taking a spot on the island team, but for the most part, curlers there have accepted the composition. There's no precedent involved, the Russell Club president stated, with plenty of other national-level curlers having played for teams other than that of their resident province.

As a result of the team composition and results posted by Team Cochrane in the Tankard showdown at Montague, PEI will have a strong contingent of fans from Ontario at Kingston, when the Brier begins on Feb. 29. Win or lose, Cochrane expects some solid play.

Historical society gears up for busy year

RUSSELL – The minutes of the Russell Historical Society from their Jan. 13 meeting were presented to Russell Township councillors at their Feb. 18 meeting.

Some highlights: The group hosted several successful events in 2019, and is considering ways to make best use of potential venues.

The Country Christmas event held at the Youth Centre in Russell was very entertaining and well attended.

The Gallagher family, who played at the Country

Christmas event, has been booked to entertain for St. Patrick's Day at the church museum on March 15. Refreshments will be served.

The historical society decided its theme for the Russell Fair display for 2020 will be "Agriculture and Food."

UCPR seeking input on vacant commercial properties

L'ORIGINAL – The United Counties of Prescott and Russell (UCPR) is seeking the public's feedback related to the property tax treatment of vacant commercial and industrial lands and properties.

Since 2017, the Province of Ontario has provided municipalities with broad flexibility to tailor the treatment of unimproved and/or under-utilized commercial and industrial properties.

"The UCPR council intends to seek regulatory authority to eliminate these initiatives, due to their inefficiencies, and as we would instead prefer to focus our efforts on promoting measures that favour the sustainable development of our communities," explained Pierre Leroux, warden of the UCPR council.

Property owners are therefore invited to provide their feedback on the potential implications of these changes. For this purpose, a survey is available online at <https://secure.mte.ca/prescott russell> until March 6.

For more information about these initiatives, please visit en.prescott-russell.on.ca/services/finances.

RHS Report

T-Wolves in Pink!

Feb. 26 is one of those days when we all aim to wear a specific colour of shirt to either honour something from the past or to spread awareness about a cause; today is the latter. Pink Shirt Day is about raising awareness that bullying is not okay and supporting anti-bullying programs. Not only do you show your support for a good initiative but we also help fund some major child help centres! Bullying is a serious problem that can happen without anyone noticing it; so on this day, it's very important to show support by wearing a pink shirt.

In addition to being Pink Shirt day, it is also National Pistachio Day and National Tell a Fairy Tale Day. National Pistachio Day can be very random but hey, a free excuse to eat pistachios. National Tell a Fairy Tale Day is a day to recognize people who have a big imagination – from those who told mariner myths to ones that tell the classic stories. Today, all you need is a great storyteller!

Finally, a reminder that this Fri., Feb. 28 will be another day off for Grades 9 through 12. And then, suddenly, it's March! Have a great week!

Emergency calls are down in 2019 for Russell fire station

Joseph Morin
Villager Staff

RUSSELL – Russell Township Fire Services tabled its report of calls and activities from 2019 at the Feb. 18 Russell council meeting.

There were 244 emergency calls over the last four years for both stations.

The Russell station had a significant decrease in calls from 126 in 2018 to 85 calls in 2019. The main reduction in calls were medical assists (down by approximately 10), false alarms and carbon monoxide calls.

The Embrun station had very little change. For Embrun, false alarms and carbon monoxide calls were down but their medical and structural fire calls were up a little. The total emergency calls at the Embrun station for 2019 was almost the same as in 2018.

The report also highlighted the volunteer activities in which the fire departments participate. Last year there were station tours, two Christmas parades, Lobsterfest, rink flooding, child seat inspections and winter carnivals.

During fire prevention week, firefighters attended events at schools. They appeared at the Russell Fair and the Canada Day activities and fireworks. They once again ran the Santa Express on Christmas Eve, worked at local Christmas food drives, and were involved with the Terry Fox Run.

The report listed the number of new firefighters hired and any certification received in 2019 for both stations. The goal is to have all firefighters hired by the municipality to be trained/certified at a Firefighter Level 2 within the second or third year of their hire date.

One new firefighter was hired; four firefighters reached the NFPA Level 1; seven reached level 2 and two were certified as NFPA pump operators.

Keeping up with STA

Spirit day coming up

By Andrew Newton
Student Contributor

Welcome back students and staff! Exams are finally over, and semester two has begun. However, due to the strike actions that have been happening, students have missed almost a full week of school. Staff and students are hoping an agreement will soon be reached. There will be another strike day on Fri., Feb. 28, so students will be off again, unless an agreement is reached.

Our annual Ash Wednesday service will be happening today, marking the start of Lent. Since yesterday was Shrove Tuesday, students and staff were able to enjoy a free pancake breakfast. Thank you to all the volunteers for the great breakfast!

Regarding sports, with one more game left in their season, the senior boys' basketball team's season has ended early. For other teams, their season has been postponed until further notice.

This Friday will be a Spirit Wear Day. For a $2 donation, students may wear athletic wear and any part of the school's uniform, like the sweater, sweatpants and so on.

Also, tomorrow there will be an outing for the ski club.

Have a great second semester everyone!

Two Russell Lions reach rare 50-year milestone

Tom Van Dusen
Villager Staff

RUSSELL – The Russell Lions Club recognized two of its oldest and finest recently, giving both Jack McLaren and Gord Saunders 50-year certificates of appreciation. The local certificates will be followed up with international pins honouring their commitment.

Although it happens from time to time, honouring 50 years of service remains a rare event. Most Lions members join the service club later in life after raising their families, and simply don't have enough years to reach the milestone.

McLaren is 81 and Saunders is now 79; however, neither consummate volunteer is about to retire any time soon. Both like what they do too much to pull out and they gain a sense of pride and a sense of accomplishment from their duties with the Lions...along with a chance to give back to the community.

"It's all about your health," says McLaren, and Saunders agrees. "If it stays with you, then you're able to carry on."

Adds Saunders: "My days of launching big projects are pretty much done but I'll attend the regular meetings and help out where I can." He points out that he has registered a perfect attendance record through 46 of 50 years.

As opposed to today's usual practice of joining later in life, they entered the club as young men in the days when life was a little more leisurely and they had time for community involvement. Says McLaren: "Things seem to be so hectic for young families today it's amazing they can get involved at all." Still, Russell Lions have always kept the roster up to around an optimum 35 members, with the Lions brand still serving as a major draw.

Coming up through the ranks side by side – with Saunders serving as Lions president three times and McLaren twice – there have been many major projects that both men have worked on including, back in the day, organizing an annual fundraising fastball tournament, installing the first set of lights at the ball park, contributing $30,000 to Russell Arena construction, helping finance the Russell swimming pool, establishing the continuing annual Lobster Feast 34 years ago, and acquiring a storage unit for donated medical equipment which is loaned free of charge upon request.

The medical equipment bank is a great service, both men state with pride. Rather than being forced to buy a wheelchair, walker, or hospital bed they may only need temporarily, patients can borrow from the Lions equipment bank; all are welcome, including those who don't live in Russell Township.

And if you've ever wondered who changes the information on the Lions signboard at the west entrance to the village, it's McLaren, the Lion living closest to that location.

Russell Village museum reopens in time for March event

After almost four months, The Keith M. Boyd Museum (also known as the church museum) has finally reopened with a new ramp and security railings gracing the entrance. A job originally estimated to cost $15,000 swallowed up $50,000 and, ironically, the accessibility ramp is inaccessible at the moment due to a pile of snow blocking the lower end. Also, no wheelchair level door opening mechanism has been installed yet. While the job took a while to complete, Russell Historical Society president Harry Baker is happy the museum is once again available to the public in time for the annual Irish Tea Party on March 15.

Foodland applauded for waste reduction efforts

Karine Boucher (centre), owner of Russell Foodland, receives the first Eco East certificate of recognition for helping to reduce plastic waste in our community.

Presenters were Anne Schibli, lead of the Eco East Waste Reduction Working Group, and Charles Armstrong, president of the Citizens' Environmental Stewardship Association – East of Ottawa (Eco East). Foodland is an affiliate of Sobeys Inc. Sobeys is the first national grocery chain to begin to remove plastic grocery takeout bags and replace them with paper bags. They are also selling reusable recycled plastic takeout bags and mesh produce bags and are encouraging customers to bring their own bags to the grocery store.

Cultivating Change will be theme of Franco-Ontarian agriculture conference

ALFRED – The third edition of the Agro et Franco Conference of l'Union des cultivateurs franco-ontariens (UCFO) will be held at Alfred's College on March 12. This year, the theme "Cultivating Change" will be the common thread linking sessions and presentations which will tackle subjects focused on the changes imposed by current circumstances both at the climatic and economic level for agri-food producers and farmers.

Two main sessions will set the tone for this first day: "Negotiating the shift" will be presented by Éthel Côté, a well-known pillar of social enterprises around the world, and "Healthy agricultural soils: a solution to climate change" will be presented by Marie-Elise Samson, a doctoral student at Laval University.

The conference will also hear from Amanda Simard, MPP for Glengarry-Prescott-Russell.

Other sessions during the full-day event will cover:

- Fatty acid milk profiles: what are they for?
- Growing forage during drought
- The development and marketing of local products

- Mental health and the agricultural industry
- Cows, poultry, and their parasites: current concerns
- A bio-digestor: it's energizing!
- Arterre: creative farm succession programs

The conference sessions will be followed by a social event where local products will be in the spotlight; it is designed to be informal to allow for networking.

The annual UCFO banquet will be held on the same evening starting at 6 p.m., and the Pierre-Bercier Prize will be awarded to Réjean Pommainville. This award recognizes a person or a couple for their involvement in the promotion and enhancement of the work of farmers, as well as their leadership in the Franco-Ontarian agricultural community.

The next day, March 13, UCFO will hold its annual general meeting at the same location from 9 a.m. to noon.

Tickets for the conference and banquet are available on the UCFO website (www.ucfo.ca) under the tab The Agro and Franco 2020 Congress. The deadline to register is March 6.

PSW training offered in Eastern Ontario

HAWKESBURY – To help overcome a local and province-wide shortage of personal support workers (PSW), the Prescott-Russell Employment Services Centre based in Hawkesbury is receiving funding to lead an innovative skills training project in close co-operation with local employers.

The project, called SkillsAdvance Ontario: Become a Personal Support Worker, will help 30 local job seekers and five currently employed personal support workers gain or upgrade the skills needed by long-term health care employers in Eastern Ontario by offering a fully funded 36-week job preparation course. The government is providing more than $600,000 in training, including essential and technical skills training, as well as job-matching and job-placement services.

"Our government knows that employers are looking for job-ready people to help fill vacancies in Eastern Ontario," said Merrilee

Fullerton, MPP for Kanata-Carleton and Minister of Long-Term Care.

Training begins in March and will include supervisor-specific tools for combating compassion fatigue.

"Last year, stakeholders from the health sector brought to our attention the urgency to develop a PSW workforce and to support our local employers from this sector especially," said Caroline Arcand, executive director, Prescott-Russell Employment Services Centre.

Benoit Marleau, administrator at the Foyer St-Viateur Nursing Home, added: "Our personal support workers play a crucial role in delivering services to our seniors. This program will provide a great opportunity to train new PSWs."
