Celebrating pandemic graduations

CHESTERVILLE – On Wed., May 4, members of the Rotary Club of Chesterville accompanied by South Nation Conservation vice chair, Steve Densham visited North Dundas District High School on Maple Ridge, and in Chesterville at St. Mary's Catholic School and Chesterville Public School. Accompanied by a staff member and students at each of the schools, the group visited the location where a honey locust tree had been planted on school grounds.

The trees were planted by the RCC, in collaboration with SNC to celebrate the graduating classes of 2020 and 2021 in local schools who were unable to "have a formal graduation due to the COVID-19 pandemic," commented RCC president rotarian Christine Cross-Barkley. The honey

Tony Fraser runs for second term as North Dundas mayor

Joseph Morin
Record Staff

WINCHESTER – Having completed his first four-year term as North Dundas' mayor as well as having eight years as a North Dundas councillor under his belt, Tony Fraser is getting ready to run for a 2nd term as mayor.

Most municipal incumbents often say that a four-year term is not always enough time to see projects that have been started during their tenure and finished; Fraser is no exception.

"I definitely am going to run for the position of mayor. I am looking forward to the opportunity to complete some of the projects that have been started," he said.

North Dundas and Chesterville and Winchester have experienced unprecedented growth in the last three years.

The new growth has triggered a host of projects from obtaining more water for the growing community to extending the life of its landfill site another 25 years. Along the way, there are hundreds of kilometres of gravel roads to be maintained and gravel roads to be paved.

The building of a new and improved Dundas Manor is also on the municipality's radar.

These are just some of the challenges the mayor has taken on and wants to see through to their end.

When it comes to population growth, Fraser has a particular point of view.

He said, "We want to make sure we have a variety of low density and multi residential homes, so that we can appeal to a wider demographic in North Dundas."

South Stormont seeks engineering and planning services

Sandy Casselman
Record Staff

LONG SAULT – The township of South Stormont is taking a proactive approach when it comes to continued and future expansion.

During the April 13 council meeting, chief administrative officer Debi LucasSwitzer recommended that council direct staff to develop an RFP (request for proposal) for engineering and planning services to develop servicing, transportation, and streetscape studies that are required to support the growth in the communities of Long Sault and Ingleside. She suggested the funds be paid from the Working Capital Reserve now and then recovered in the future from the Development Charges Reserve Fund. South Stormont’s politicians agreed, approving the recommendation.

“As council is aware, at the Committee of the Whole meeting, we received some very distressing information with respect to the amount of water capacity that we have and how many lots we have available for those that are not committed. As a result of that, we sat down with the director of planning and building and the director of Public Works and had a lengthy conversation in terms of what it would take for us to be much better prepared for the development that we know is coming, in order to be able to provide the appropriate services that they’re going to want,” LucasSwitzer said. “We don’t have the capabilities at this time, as council’s aware we have a very heavy construction season and a very heavy planning and building season. We’re not in a position to do this work on our own. As a result, we are asking for council’s support in order for us to get the appropriate services in place so we can meet the demands of the community.”

Councillor Cindy Woods said she’s happy to see this report and recommendation come to council, noting that it will make things better for everyone, ensuring township standards are being met in terms of new developments. Deputy Mayor David Smith agreed, adding that it’s something that “has to be done.”

Tony Fraser

“The rate we have grown in the last few years has been unexpected. North Dundas has become a place where people want to move to. The evidence that supports that is we thought we had enough water to go from 2019 to 2039. We knew that at some point we would have to find more water. We thought we had 20 years of water in front of us, but within a matter of three years that water was allocated.”

The current population of Winchester and Chesterville have lots of water to use, but when the growth begins to take place, the current supply will not be enough.

Fraser said the growth coming toward North Dundas is the result of what the municipality has to offer such as having a great hospital, schools and recreation facilities including tennis courts, and two swimming pools.

“You can live your whole life in North Dundas. You can be born here at our great hospital, be educated here, raise a family here and find employment here.”

One of Fraser’s interests is creating more housing for seniors in North Dundas.

He said, “When I was campaigning for the position for mayor in 2018, I was talking about the need to have homes for seniors. I did not want people to have to leave North Dundas to find accommodations that suited them.”

Since then, the Winchester community has welcomed the arrival of Wellings of Winchester a specifically designed housing development for seniors.

“That is a start,” said

Courtesy Photo

Fraser. “We need more of that.”

As mayor, Fraser is hoping to facilitate more growth, large and small housing projects.

“We are looking for housing for those looking for a lower price.”

Fraser believes he has a handle on what his community wants in terms of recreation, lifestyle and community, and he has the support of municipal staff in taking these challenges on.

Fraser complimented municipal staff as being forward thinking and having the ability to come up with innovative solutions to these modern day challenges.

NOTICE OF PASSING OF A DEVELOPMENT CHARGES BY-LAW BY THE CORPORATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF NORTH DUNDAS

“I would really like to thank the Chesterville Rotary Club for taking the time to recognize the incredible challenges that our students, school and community have faced during the past two plus years of the pandemic. The impact on our young people has been significant, and I believe that part of the healing process and our ability to move forward, is to acknowledge with our students and community the impact or trauma that the pandemic has had on our students,” commented NDDHS principal Michael Deighton. He continued the tree and plaque recognize the challenges experienced and perseverance of students, staff,

Insects have feelings too, but it is hard to care

Well according to the spider I just ran into in my dining room, spring has more than arrived and summer is next up at bat.

Every year I try to figure out which insect cycle we are going into.

Last year, for me, it was wasps and earwigs. The year before it was ants and earwigs.

Earwigs apparently move into your house when their environment outside becomes too dry or too wet or too hot.

I do not feel at all sorry for them. We all have to deal with being affected by a changing environment. I say to earwigs 'suck it up' and stay in the yard. The same goes for the wasps that invaded my house last year. I never could find out where they were coming from, but I am sure they suffered a significant population decrease in Eastern Ontario after I declared war on them. I do not have any kind of grudge against the miserable, stinging and rude wasp, but you stay where you belong and I will follow suit.

The relationship between insects and the rest of us especially humans has always been a tricky one to keep in balance.

Fortunately Canada has a few months of winter that helps to regulate some of the more lethal beasties that plague our cousins to the south and especially in Australia where all insects seem to have been designed to take you out.

I know that there is a reason why insects exist, and at the best of times you have to respect that, but from time to time we all run into exceptions to the rule.

Just like you do not want to find an alligator in your bathtub, you do not want to find some kind of poisonous insect in your kitchen window courtesy of climate change.

Just as important is the impact of a changing climate on agricultural pests that just love to munch on your favourite crop.

The climate is warming up, it doesn't matter why. Experts have speculated that there will be an increase in global mean annual temperatures of 1°C by 2025 and 3°C by the end of the next century. Such increases in temperature will have an effect on temperature-dependent insect pests in mid-latitude regions. Yes. That means the mosquitoes, hornets and spiders just to name a few pests will probably feel more welcome as North America, and Europe start to warm up.

The problem for most if not all insects is that they were created and designed to not have to regulate their body temperature. If it's too hot they do not do very well and if it's suddenly a frosty morning, they likewise take a hit to their health.

All insects have an operative range of temperatures they do best in, and as temperatures slowly rise, there will be some winners and losers in the insect world. As humans go, we can adapt, but can we adapt to a gradual invasion of insects that can cause chaos to our crops of soybeans, and grains, not to mention when you spot one looking at you from the end of your television remote.

Thanks to cargo ships from Asia, the ones with all those neat electronics no doubt, and a changing climate, we now have the amazing murder hornets in North America. The size of a double A battery and protected by a hard shell. This new addition to our summer bug collection, and things not really wanted in your home is very slowly trying to gain a foothold in Canada beginning with British Columbia.

Climate change could help speed up the pace of the hornet's advance, similar to the astonishing travels of the Asian hornet in France, where it has moved at nearly 50 miles a year since arriving in the early 2000s there and is now found in the Alps.

In 2020 the murder hornet was spotted near the US border so they are slowly coming this way.

The good news is that they do not go around in trench coats looking for people to murder. They attack and destroy honeybees, the ones we cherish and depend on to pollinate our crops.

When do fly swatters go on sale?

NDDHS Report

By Savannah Coleman
Student Council Communications

Lots of fun for May

As the spring weather arrives, North Dundas has many activities and days full of fun coming up – Spring Carnival, Student vs Staff Volleyball, and spirit days!

Our talent show was a major success, full of amazing talent that our very own ND students showed off! At the end of the show, there were prizes given out to thank students for getting over 540 donations to donate to the food bank! Some prizes included M&M Milkshakes, homemade maple syrup, and homemade jewelry.

North Dundas raised over $1000 for the Green Iglu Fundraiser that was put on by our student representatives, Sebastian Lafrance and Brooklyn Begg; well above their goal of $217! There was a coin drive and "Guess How Many Gummies are in the Jar" at the pancake breakfast and talent show to raise money for this Canadian charity that is designed to fight the issue of food sovereignty in remote and Indigenous communities in Canada. Well done ND!

The secondary track and field team had a great day on Wed., May 4, as they competed at the SD&G championship at the Terry Fox Athletic Facility! Top 4 finishers in each event will attend EOSSAA in 2 weeks. Our team has 12 athletes who qualified in 24 events! Nephi Da Silva Moreira finished 1st in the 100m, hurdles and long jump; Lamoni Kamabasaya finished 1st in hurdles and long jump and broke the SDG record in long jump; Tala Brant Barry finished 1st in the discus; Julia Cooper finished 1st in the discus; Brandon Daye finished 1st in the triple jump; Ben Dean finished 1st in the javelin; Jack Link finished 1st in the 3000m; Sophia McRostie finished first in hurdles; Cassidy Porteous finished first in the hurdles. Other qualifiers are Owen Bond, Jess Groves, and Reese Snelson. What a way to represent our school!

All teachers at North Dundas showed their classes three one-minute videos to show that the r-word is not okay to use. Your words matter, so use them well! Sure, to you the r-word may just be a word. We get it, but we're here to ask you to stand with the 1 in every 100 Canadians living with an intellectual disability. Regardless of how you use it, using the r-word is NOT okay. Make the choice to stop saying it and inspire others to do the same.

ND's Spring Carnival will be held on May 18, for all grades 7-12. There will be different stations of various activities to compete against friends!

ND's high school Student vs Staff Volleyball game will be held on May 20, and will be a $2 buyout, with the funds going to health and wellness initiatives.

Lots of fun opportunities to do here at North Dundas!

What's on your mind?

I'm trying to think of something to write about that's not controversial but also not overtly boring and I'm drawing a complete blank. I have ideas, of course. Endless ideas. But none of them seem quite right. Should I talk about the community group that's taken offense because their council has been making decisions on their behalf, you know, like council's are supposed to do? Or should I write about the 2022 Year of the Garden that's meant to entice and encourage people to take up gardening in one form or another? Of course, I could always talk about what it's like being one of the people who hasn't contracted Covid, but I don't want to jinx myself.

So where does that leave me? Or us, since, as the reader, you're in this too. I think it's time for you – the reader – to tell us what you want to read about. What types of editorials do you prefer? Are you into reading about a reporter's take on political issues? Do you want to learn something new? How do you feel about personal accounts of this or that? Maybe drawing awareness to specific societal issues, such as homelessness and poverty? Or, on the flipside, maybe something funny? I don't know, you tell me. Please. Really, I'm serious. Send me an email with your suggestions and I'll see what I can do. My email address is news@etceterapublications.ca.

That's great. Now, where does that leave me for this week? Well, I guess – to stay with the current theme – I'd like to talk more about the writer-reader relationship. When I write articles for the paper, I usually try to answer the questions I know I'd like answered if I were the reader. That's it, that's my process with almost everything. Now, with editorials, in the past, before I started working for The Record, I wrote a lot about current events – sometimes controversial, sometimes not – or about a topic covered in one of the current week's articles.

Recently, I've kept everything rather tame, like when I write about the changing seasons, for instance. If I were to apply my usual process to writing editorials then I'd probably write about something I think is important, either a controversial topic that needs to be dissected or an informative topic that spreads awareness whether it be about available services and resources or about a topic, such as the No Mow May project, where people are encouraged to leave their lawns alone for the month to ensure a healthy start to the season for our bee population.

I do worry about offending people, so I try not to do that even when I talk about controversial topics, but I'm sure that I'm not always successful. I find it's getting increasingly difficult to discuss certain topics, as more and more people are tending toward extremes, either left or right. It makes me sad because if we can't have an open, honest, and civil discussion, then how are we to move forward toward peace and a better world for everyone?

What I love – as a reader and a consumer of the written word – is being challenged to learn and to grow and to think or see something in a new way. Ultimately, I may not agree with the new perspective, but I really do believe it's important to take the time to genuinely consider it. I do this a lot on my own. I like to read non-fiction and I like to read blogs and editorials that give me new perspectives. I also like writing out my thoughts and feelings about something until my own opinion starts to take a form and begins to not necessarily solidify, but to become more tangible or identifiable. I also write because it's an excellent way to address mental health issues, and, let's be honest, I have several of those.

So, where am I going with this? Well, I've already asked you to send me an email telling me what you'd like to read about in an editorial. Now, I'm thinking, wouldn't it be interesting to find out what you would write about in an editorial. Perhaps, if you're so inclined, you could write a few thoughts in a "letter to the editor" where you share your perspective and experience. Maybe we could build a community of residents who are eager to learn and to share with one another. It's just a thought. I'll leave it to you to decide, of course, but just in case you like the idea, our editor's email is editor@etceterapublications.ca and I'm sure he'd love to hear from you, too.

Dundas Agri-Systems joins AgriHub group

Joseph Morin
Record Staff

BRINSTON – Dundas-Agri Systems, (DAS), in Brinston, family owned and operated in Eastern Ontario since 1981, is taking advantage of an opportunity to extend its reach by joining forces with the AgriHub Group of Companies.

A press release about the decision stated: "Dundas Agri Systems (DAS) is pleased to announce that effective May 1, 2022, it is joining forces with a group of other like-minded agri-businesses from across Canada who operated under the corporate umbrella of the AgriHub Group of Companies. This partnership is a natural fit given the focus on Canadian Dairy Excellence and customer service practiced by DAS, and the various AgriHub Operating Brands."

The experienced and dedicated staff at Dundas-Agri Systems will still be on hand to help their clients.

The press release stated: "Most things will remain unchanged with respect to the company structure and product/service offerings. It will remain a local Eastern Ontario focused business with all current employees and support personnel remaining with the organization."

The reasoning behind the decision is to give Dundas-Agri Systems access to corporate skill sets like finance, information technology, human resources, and marketing.

"We will be gaining access to an expanded team of dairy and industry experts. In addition, DAS will see expansion in the product and consumable lines, improved costing, while achieving a measure of pricing stability due to leveraged buying power."

DAS is determined to continue to share good relationships with its existing customers and is hoping to be able to create a stronger group of agricultural experts.

Dundas Agri Systems is an established, family owned, and operated company launched in 1981 to serve Dairy Producers of Eastern Ontario. As a prominent provider of Lely and Boumatic Systems, and a well-regarded expert in milking, DAS currently is privileged to serve over 250 dairy farms in the Eastern Ontario region.

AgriHub is a provider of central services to its Operating Brands across Western Canada and the Upper Midwest USA. AgriHub's industry leading Operating Brands – Penner Farm Services, Western Ag Systems, United Agri Systems, New Standard Ag and Horizon Livestock & Poultry Supply – have provided design-built equipment, service and consumables to hog, poultry, dairy, and grain farming partners for over 50 years.

- Obituary - Lillian MacLeod

1926 - 2022

Our beloved matriarch, Lillian (Winters) MacLeod, chose to depart her earthly life on May 5, 2022, at the age of 95.

She is remembered with love and sadness by her children Ron (Marie), Jim (Susan), Alex (Louise) and Sharon; her grandchildren Dan (Ashley), Shaunna (Peter) and Damon (Mandy); and her great-grandchildren Amelia and Alexander Vyletel and Asher and Tamoh MacLeod.

Lillian was predeceased by her youngest child, Mark, in 1985, and her husband, Bruce, in 1991.

Lillian was born at home on Post Road, close to Long Sault, on June 5, 1926. She was the fifth of Emily Ada (née Ross) and Heber Winters's nine children. As a farm girl, Lillian helped out with a host of chores, including milking, gardening, laundry, cooking, canning, housekeeping and minding the little ones. Despite her busy life, Lillian was a happy child who loved baking cakes, riding horses and sharing a good laugh with her sisters.

At the age of 16, Lillian got a job at the paper mill in Mille Roches. She saved her money and was soon able to buy her first car, a black Ford with a rumble seat.

In 1949, Lillian left her job (and sold her car!) when she married Bruce MacLeod. After honeymooning in Niagara Falls, the young couple settled on the MacLeod family farm at Goldfield. Lillian was thrust into a busy life as a farm wife, mother and homemaker. She was a tireless worker, renowned for her cooking skills, her pristine home (God help any flies that dared to enter), her glorious flower beds and her limitless devotion to her family's well-being.

Lillian was a brave and powerful woman who dealt with tragedy and illness during her long life. The loss of her youngest son, when he was only 23, was a crushing blow. And when her dear husband, Bruce, died, it took all her strength to move to Ingleside and begin a new life on her own. In her later years, Lillian confronted serious health issues and the heartbreak of losing numerous family members and friends. But she always overcame each difficult challenge. What choice did she have? She loved her children, her grandchildren, and her great-grandchildren. She loved life. She loved laughter. And she never wanted to say goodbye.

At Lillian's request, her remains will be cremated and there will be no funeral. Those who wish to do so may make a donation in Lillian's memory to Winchester Hospital or to Diabetes Canada.

Family and friends are invited to celebrate Lillian's life at a brief service at Finch Cemetery on Saturday, June 25, 2022, at 11:00 a.m.

NOTICE

To Our Loyal Subscribers & Advertisers,

The Chesterville Record paper is continuing to be published on a weekly basis, we are just doing it from our homes.

The decision to not have a physical office was not an easy one. It was extremely difficult for management, and staff to make, but the times are changing and we had to evolve as well.

Many other community newspapers in this part of Ontario have made similar decisions in order to continue to serve, and effectively engage their respective communities as we have done for over a century.

With the restrictions of the pandemic over the last two plus years, The Chesterville Record stopped production at the end of March 2020. The paper started back up in late June 2020, and has been going strong ever since.

Despite numerous lockdowns, the staff still managed to publish your paper on schedule, every week, sometimes at the office, but for the most part, it was done from their homes.

Since the beginning of 2021, the start of the January lockdown, the staff have been working full-time from home.

Please know that we are committed to you, and will continue to be your local news source.

Densham announces candidacy for NS deputy mayor

Carolyn Thompson Goddard
Record Staff

BERWICK – Long time resident and municipal councillor of North Stormont announced on Mon., May 2 that he was seeking to be the next deputy mayor of the municipality.

Densham commented when announcing his candidacy how he wished to build on the positive momentum created over the last term of council and carry it forward. He noted it had been a challenging term, with the Wind Turbines, the pandemic and other council issues, but he has learned a lot and intends to build on the knowledge gained to encourage growth in NS.

He took a few moments to thank Craig Calder for “building a strong staff” during this challenging time and mentioned the GFL agreement will be key “to opening new potential opportunities in NS to feed economic development.” He noted small businesses struggled with restrictions during the pandemic and need economic support during the recovery period.

Densham mentioned he went out and spoke with local business owners, learning firsthand what was needed for them to not only survive but thrive during these difficult economic times. Including organizing Wellness Tours which involved MP Eric Duncan, MPP Jim McDonell and Densham reaching out to local businesses during the pandemic as well as the creation of a NS Shop Local Facebook page. On the economic development front, he mentioned his successful advocacy to allocate a budget for the salary of an economic development officer.

He praised that the amalgamation of municipal recreation groups into an Amalgamated Recreation Committee under the leadership of Ellen McNaughton and Pierre Thibault. He feels the unification of the various committees has led to a better coordination of events, development of best practices and collaboration on budgeting.

Densham concluded how it is necessary for rural municipal governments to be proactive to ensure the continued survival of rural communities. He mentioned he enjoyed his term as councillor as it allowed him the chance to contribute to his community more substantially. He continued, in his role as councillor he was able to encourage people and committee members to work together for the benefit of the North Stormont community.

Densham currently serves on five community committees and boards including his most recent appointment to the Winchester District Memorial Hospital board.

Environmental Assessment of the Township of North Dundas Waste Management Plan Notice of Draft Environmental Assessment Study Report

The Township of North Dundas (Township) has completed a draft Environmental Assessment (EA) of the Township of North Dundas Waste Management Plan.

The EA Study evaluated long-term solid waste management options for a 25-year planning period. The Township is seeking to accommodate disposal of waste corresponding to the consumption of approximately 417,700 m<sup>3</sup> of waste landfill disposal from 2023 to 2048, as its existing Boyne Road Landfill is currently at capacity. The EA Study evaluated long-term solid waste management options to achieve this objective and has identified increased diversion and expansion of the existing Boyne Road Landfill as the preferred alternative.

As a requirement of commitment 15 in the approved Terms of References, the draft EA Study Report will be available for public review and comment from May 27, 2022 to June 24, 2022 for a four-week review period. LONG SAULT – Township of South Stormont politicians recently received an update on the municipality's roads' needs.

During the April 27 council meeting, D.M. Wills Associates' transportation project engineer Eric St. Pierre presented his findings from a 2021 field investigation. His presentation included an overview of the Road Needs Study (RNS) methodology and activities, a summary of South Stormont's roads' infrastructure, a summary of the findings and budget considerations, and road work prioritization considerations.

"The road study methodology that we used for this study is a combination of the MTO (Ministry of Transportation Ontario) Inventory Manual for municipal roads from 1981, as well as PCI (Pavement Condition Index) methodology, in addition to that for hardtop roads," St. Pierre said. "So, every single road received an assessment based on the inventory manual, and all hardtop roads, your surface treated and your hot mix asphalt roads, they received, in addition, a PCI assessment. The inventory manual is a holistic look at the road network. It doesn't just look at the condition of the pavement. It takes a look at the surface condition, which is how easy it is to drive on the road. It looks at the surface type, drainage alignment, maintenance demand, etc., while the PCI is more focused on the user's experience of the road. It's more complex."

St. Pierre said a fully funded plan of roughly $2.3 million per year for the next 10 years would address all the township's road needs with future costs approaching the resurfacing base rate of $1.3 million per year. In his report, he also stated that the current amount of funding, which is roughly $1.5 million per year, would maintain existing levels of service but would not allow for necessary rehabilitation work. This, he noted, could cost more in the long run.

"Because you're missing so much of your rehabilitation candidates in that existing budget and you're not addressing all your reconstruction or major rehabilitation needs, you might find that your future costs' increase compared to the fully funded plan," St. Pierre said.

Mayor Bryan McGillis asked director of Public Works' Ross Gellately for his opinion on the matter. Gellately made a statement before asking the deputy director of Public Works' Mohammed Alsharqawi to speak, as he's been the one looking after this particular project.

"I think that the plan is very reflective of the condition of the roads currently and the two scenarios that were presented, I think, you give us a good idea of where we are and where we need to go," Gellately said. "Unfortunately, the roads are one part of the upcoming asset management plan. This information will be used in the asset management plan, as well as all the other core assets that have been identified."

Alsharqawi reiterated that the roads' needs have been identified for the next 10 years and that it is up to council as to whether they follow the $2.3 million per year plan or the $1.3 million per year plan. Either way, he said the team would look to prioritize the projects according to need.

"This is something that we needed to do and for the future of the township in terms of what we want to do with our roads," McGillis said. "I think this is a good start."

No decisions were made during the meeting, but later in the evening, a report from Gellately stated that municipal staff have scheduled a spring road project, and facilities tour for June 3, where capital and maintenance projects for the current year and those proposed for future years are viewed. Council was invited to add to the list of sites to visit.

St. Pierre's report can be found in the May 2 council meeting's agenda package. The meeting itself can be viewed via a link from the township's website (southstormont.ca).

AVONMORE – In the tradition of the other Ladies Night held at North Stormont Place in Avonmore, this year's event was a resounding success. The 2020 and 2021 Ladies Night events were cancelled due to the COVID-19 pandemic and there was a wonderful sense of community evident in NSP.

Organized by the Avonmore Community Athletic Association, organizer Josee Poirier explained the event raised $13,325.25 for Carefor Health and Community Services, Meals On Wheels delivery services in North Stormont. Poirier commented how "It takes a village to support community services! Avonmore is a small community with a huge heart."

Poirier continued the event provided an opportunity for fun and fellowship for the 112 women who participated. She mentioned there were fifteen tables decorated, noting the Night Before Christmas group had three decorated tables. Some of the themes included Neverland,

Throughout the evening, participants were able to visit with friends, enjoy delicious snacks and desserts, bid in the silent auction and later in the live auction with auctioneer Brandon Scheepers. On behalf of staff and clients of Adams Financial Group, Kerry Adams presented a cheque for $3,000 to Carefor Meal Delivery Program during the evening.

A sincere thanks was provided to those who made donations for the auctions, organized the event, decorated the tables and venue. Poirier wished to thank the ACAA committee members who worked so hard to make this event successful including Sophie Branchaud, Carrie Coutourier, Kerri Mainville and Beth Harps. A special thanks was extended to Adams Financial Group, noting how AFG president Kerry Adam is a ACAA volunteer and serves as the fire chief, Avonmore Station, North Stormont Fire Services. The 2023 Ladies Night theme will be the 90s era, much to the delight of people at this year's event and is scheduled for May 12, 2023.

Happy Face sheds light on coming childcare changes

Sandy Casselman
Record Staff

WINCHESTER – With last month's announcement from the provincial and federal government about changes to childcare in Ontario, some parents are wondering what happens next.

"I think it's going to be amazing for families," Happy Face Nursery School executive director Cheryl Firlotte said.

While Firlotte acknowledges the benefits of the new funding announcement, she also noted that she's been getting several inquiries from parents about the provincial-federal announcement with many under the impression they'll be getting $10-a-day childcare as of April 1; this is not the case.

"The big things that parents don't necessarily have a clear understanding of is that it's not $10-a-day. It's not happening right away. It's a gradual process," Firlotte said. "It's not $10-a-day, it's $12-a-day, and we won't get to that $12-a-day for a little while, and that date will vary for different centres because it depends on what your starting point is.

Firlotte said Happy Face is currently waiting to get their application forms, as each eligible childcare centre must apply to be part of the program. Only licensed childcare centres are eligible. If approved, the first stage of the program will see parents receive a 25 per cent discount on their current fees, retroactive to April 1.

"It's not going to be an overnight process," Firlotte said, adding that it's a gradual stepping down until parents reach the $12-a-day cost. The next reduction is set for December 2022, and Firlotte said she believes this will consist of an additional 25 per cent off whatever parents are paying at that point.

Parents already receiving subsidies will continue to receive those subsidies, as they are not to be impacted by the new program. So, low-income parents who currently pay zero dollars will continue to do so, Firlotte said.

"I just wish they would have been clearer with families, especially about what to expect from this program," Firlotte said, noting that the $10-a-day is an average that takes into consideration those families receiving additional subsidies. "For full fee-paying parents who don't have the subsidies, it will be $12.

The program is open to everyone in Ontario with children in the kindergarten or younger age range. It doesn't cover school age children.

As for the governments' promise to increase the number of early childhood educators, and to increase the available childcare spots, Firlotte said Ontario has not yet released the guidelines for how this will work. However, she did say that she expects it to be a lengthy process.

"They haven't started that process yet," she said. "But right now, for us, as with almost every industry right now, staff shortage is a huge issue for us. Our new centre in Winchester is opening in September, so I need 12 new staff members."

Childcare professionals have been advocating for affordable childcare for years, Firlotte said, making this announcement a huge win. She said it's an exciting and wonderful thing for families.

"Through the pandemic, we saw that society relies on childcare. It's huge. People can't go to work if they don't have care for their children," she said.

Happy Face Nursery School has locations in Chesterville, Morrisburg, Nationview, and Roxmore, with another coming to Winchester soon. To learn more about Happy Face, visit the website: (happyfacechildcare.ca). Happy Face's administrative office is located at 504 St. Lawrence Street in Winchester.

SMALL BUSINESS Spotlight

BeBe's Boutique sends 'sparkle from coast to coast to coast'

WILLIAMSBURG – What began as a home-made gift-giving project for Breckyn Caers has now become a full-fledged successful home-based business she calls BeBe's Boutique.

"I wanted to make something different for end-of-year gifts for my oldest son's teachers," she said. "Through the power of social media, I had friends ask for pairs [of earrings] for themselves and for gifts. Later that summer, I made earrings for my own wedding and then for a friend's wedding and then another friend's wedding."

Caers said her business developed organically from making druzy studs for gift giving purposes in 2019, to making earrings to sell just six months later. While earrings are her biggest seller, she also makes bookmarks, rings, necklaces, and keychains too. Most of her earrings are made from stainless steel, however, Caers said she can make "almost everything" with silicone posts for those with metal sensitivities.

"I appreciate each and every order more than [customers] could ever know," she said. "I've sent sparkle from coast to coast to coast, which is a pretty amazing feeling."

BeBe's Boutique products are sold online via Facebook and Instagram. The sparkly merchandise can be picked up at Caers' home just north of Williamsburg or she can ship to anywhere in Canada. For those who live locally, she may be able to deliver depending on the day.

"I try to meet up with people whenever possible if I'm out running errands, too," she said. "So, it depends on the day."

everything she knows about making jewelry from online tutorials and experimentation.

"There's a lot of trial and error, but sometimes there's positives in those mess ups," she said.

BeBe's Boutique products come in many different sparkly colours, as well as in a myriad of themes from flowers to barnyard animals to holiday icons to film characters, and more. Caers said she gets her ideas from online sources, as well as from her clients.

"I listen to my customers," she said. "I also watch trends that are popular in our area and try to keep up with that, and if someone has a special request, I do my best to accommodate."

If you're the type of person who prefers to look at products in person, Caers attends many local fairs and events, where she displays her merchandise. She said these venues are a great way to meet and chat with customers, both current and new.

"Events have definitely helped," Caers said. "It's fun to get out and see everyone, meet new customers, and catch up with previous customers. I'm very lucky that I have made some pretty great friends through this as well."

Recently, Caers showcased her BeBe's Boutique items at the April 30 House of Lazarus (HOL) Ladies' Night Out event and the May 7 Spencerville Spring Market. This weekend, on May 14, Caers will be showcasing her merchandise at the Winchester Garden Party Market. To stay informed about upcoming vendor events, follow BeBe's Boutique on Facebook or Instagram.

Although BeBe's Boutique is growing and gaining in popularity, Caers has not forgotten her community. She creates and donates items for local charity fundraisers, as well. The April 30 HOL event, for instance, she donated earrings to be included in the giveaway bags for attendees.

"I'm always happy to help with local fundraising efforts," Caers said, adding that in addition to donating items to fundraisers, she's also happy to run a fundraiser with a group. "I currently have my Habitat Cornwall Fundraiser with hammer and screwdriver earrings for the South Dundas build." The local Habitat for Humanity has broken ground in Winchester Springs. Excavation of the site took place on May 9.

South Dundas awards contracts for two municipal drains

Sandy Casselman
Record Staff

MORRISBURG – Municipality of South Dundas politicians have awarded contracts for work on two municipal drains.

The decisions were made during the April 25 council meeting. Following the request for proposal (RFP) tender process, infrastructure services coordinator Justin Moran recommended council hire Quintan Products for maintenance work on the Oliver Keyes Municipal Drain at a cost of roughly $100,146 plus HST. He also recommended that TDM Construction be hired for maintenance work on the Thorpe Ellis Municipal Drain at a cost of roughly $51,900 plus HST. Council approved both requests.

"It was nice to see that all the bids were very close and very competitive," Coun. Lloyd Wells said in response to the Oliver Keyes Municipal Drain report. "And a local contractor got it, so that's even better. It's a big drain, like there's almost 10 km, so I think that's a good price." He later noted that both contracts were awarded to local contractors, adding that "it's nice to see that we have more than one local contractor bidding on stuff."

Both municipal drains underwent an inspection in the fall of 2021, following requests for maintenance, and, in addition to bottom cleanouts and brushing, both municipal drains required miscellaneous repairs, some culvert replacements, and environmental offsetting measures. The Oliver Keyes Municipal Drain requires roughly 9.5 km of bottom cleanout, and 200 m of brushing, while the Thorpe Ellis Municipal Drain requires roughly 5 km of bottom cleanout, and 100 m of brushing.

There were three bids each received by the deadline for both the Oliver Keyes and the Thorpe Ellis municipal drains. Quintan Products was the lowest bidder on the Oliver Keyes Municipal Drain project, while TDM Construction was the lowest for the Thorpe Ellis Municipal Drain.

"I thank you for your work," Mayor Steven Byvelts said to Moran. "I know that you jumped into a big mess, but I think now with your credentials of being our drainage superintendent, it's good to see some work getting started. I know it technically can't start until August, but the tenders are out and that's a good thing, so keep up the good work." Work on both municipal drains is expected to begin mid-August.

Township adds loading zone in front of Embrun school

EMBRUN – The township of Russell has amended its Traffic and Parking Bylaw to include a 10-minute loading zone across from École Secondaire Catholique Embrun.

While the final decision was made during the May 2 council meeting, the issue of traffic congestion in front of the school was initially raised by Millie Bourdeau, director of public safety and enforcement, during council's April 19 regularly scheduled meeting. A lengthy discussion took place at that time, as Bourdeau's initial recommendation was to make that section of St-Jacques Road a "no parking" zone to encourage students to park in the parking lot rather than on the road.

"Following the regular council meeting of April 19, 2022, council requested that the proposed amendment be reviewed and brought back to council at a later date," Bourdeau said in her report. "Council members suggested that a 10-minute loading zone instead of a no parking zone be instated on the east side of the road, as it is on the west side."

With council members concerned for parents dropping off and picking up students, the recommendation was changed to adding a 10-minute loading zone on St-Jacques Road across from École Secondaire Catholique in Embrun, to be effective Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. With council's approval of the bylaw amendment, they also gave Bourdeau the greenlight to order four new signs to be installed at an approximate cost of $295.

"Following council's request, the public safety and enforcement department will monitor the area to ensure that the proposed loading zone remedies citizens' concerns of traffic congestion during school's start and finish hours," Bourdeau stated.

Bourdeau's report, along with a sketch of the affected area, can be found in the township's May 2 council agenda package. A listing of Russell's bylaws can be found on the municipality's website (Russell.ca).

Metcalfe Farmers' Market celebrates 29 years

Joseph Morin
Villager Staff

METCALFE – The Metcalfe Farmers' Market celebrated its 29th year with a grand opening on Sat., May 7.

The market included blacksmith demonstrations and music by Two for the Road.

Reanne Slater the Metcalfe Farmers' Market manager was happy to have the market back open for another season.

She said, "We have 54 vendors."

Slater said there was no problem getting that number of vendors at the market for the opening day. "We have a waiting list," she said.

"This will be our 29th year which is wonderful, and we have four-night markets planned again."

Slater mentioned "There are a few new people; we have some new flower vendors and Halls Apples. We have a few new farmers outside with vegetables and a new pork person."

"The market is definitely healthy."

Slater said she works throughout the off-season to find new vendors and uses social media for example to help maintain the area's awareness about the market.

Susan Potter the president of the market and the owner of Susan Potter Photograph Restoration and Digital Services was happy with the market turnout.

Potter has been at the Metcalfe Farmers' Market since 2006.

"The amount of vendors we have today and for the season is definitely the most we have had in a number of years," said Potter.

Potter said there are a lot of smaller producers who prefer the Metcalfe market.

"Hopefully because we have so many vendors, people come out and see that it is worthwhile and want to come back."

Potter said there was a great deal of room for more vendors and more visitors.

Ottawa councillor for the Osgoode ward George Darouze was on hand for the opening of the market.

He said, "I am very happy to be here again, and for the 29th season. It's a beautiful day to be in Metcalfe."

Darouze said that after the pandemic, it was great to see so many people out and about.

"In the last few years, people have been cooped up, and it's so nice to see people out in the community supporting the local economy and agriculture sector."

Metcalfe welcomes spring with Meet and Greet on Victoria Street event

Joseph Morin
Villager Staff

METCALFE – On Sat., May 7, the Meet and Greet on Victoria Street event in the village of Metcalfe signals the beginning of summer along with the first day of the Metcalfe Farmers' Market on the Metcalfe fairgrounds.

The Victoria Street event was hosted by the Metcalfe Community Association.

The day featured vendors along Victoria Street, which was closed to traffic for the day. Along with vendors there was a small "touch a truck" display with fire trucks and heavy equipment including a dump truck and a grader. The police arrived as well to give children and adults a look at the inside of a police cruiser; added to all of that was food and music.

The Greely and Metcalfe Fire stations had on display a ladder truck and various other equipment. The Ottawa Bytown Fire Brigade had a vintage fire truck for visitors to look at.

The president of the community association, Marc Sauve said, "This is the 6th annual. We could not have any for two years because of Covid. Originally we had six participants. Then it went to 11 and now we are up to 40 members."

Each year the association collects fees from the vendors to be at the event, then selects a recipient for those funds. This year, the recipient is Rural Ottawa South Support Services, (ROSSS).

"We also have a free barbecue that is put on by Coun. Darouze. The fire department will do the actual cooking for the barbecue."

was a martial arts demonstration.

"The people here are all local Metcalfe home based business owners and operators and we have five brick and mortar businesses."

Sauve said the small villages in the area have a lot to offer and that is why events like Meet and Greet on Victoria Street are so important.

Camille Piché Community Centre's future undecided

Sandy Casselman
Villager Staff

EMBRUN – While options are being explored, the township of Russell's plans to turn the Camille Piché Community Centre into Embrun's new library are not set in stone.

A delegation of Embrun residents attended the municipality's May 2 council meeting where their spokesperson, Lorraine Dicaire, provided a history of the Camille Piché Community Centre, noting that the residents should have a say in what happens to the centre now and in the future. Dicaire's presentation, along with the discussion afterward, were conducted in French. Mayor Pierre Leroux said that while council is still on board with transforming the centre into a library, nothing is final yet.

"The group of citizens was asking that we find alternatives to using the community centre as a new branch, but they also clearly stated that they deserve a new library," he said. "This file has been ongoing for several years now. The administration and council looked at several options and concluded this was the most practical cost-effective way of proceeding. However, until such time as the next step is finalized, council could always go in a different direction."

In 2021, council decided to turn the Camille Piché Community Centre into Embrun's new library. In April 2022, an engineering study was completed confirming that the building can be transformed into a library. Now, municipal staff are looking into concept drawings, costs, and timelines, which they will present to council for a final decision before moving forward.

Prior to the delegation's presentation, a letter was sent to council in both French and English providing a short history of the centre from concept to creation. The letter also included a list of resident signatures.

"Back in 1972, the Embrun Recreation Association members addressed the construction of a new and bigger hall which was much needed," the letter stated. "The huge Big Hall was built for the Embrun community, and all monies owing were paid back in full by this recreation association by 1977 and all debts to the township were paid. The township had given us a money advance of $90,000 at 7.3 per cent."

"This proves that this building was a vision by the pioneers of Embrun in the 1960s. They were the innovators of this project. They saw it through and the whole community would come and see the construction site. It became the people's project. This explains why it is so hard for us to hear about future plans for this building, because really this building belongs to all of us in Embrun, and we should be able to vote on the final decision of its fate."

The letter in its entirety is available in the township's May 2 council agenda package in both French and English.
